Respectfully submitted,

SAMUEL P. CALEF, Treasurer.

We regret that in consequence of the sickness of both our Collectors, and the death of one of them so late in the year, we have not been able to report our taxes collected as close as we hoped.

Resolved, That in the death of our Collector, Charles H. Marden, we deeply feel the loss of a genial and pleasant companion, an honest man, a capable and faithful officer, and the town a good citizen. While we deeply feel our loss we would meekly submit to the dispensations of Him who doeth all things right, and we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family.

School Report.

I have made, during the year, fifty-one half-day visits upon the schools of the town; but being called from the state before the last terms closed in four of the districts, I engaged the Rev. J. D. Tilton to make for these, the final visitations. The schools have been quiet, and, for the most part, reasonably successful. No cases of "trouble" have been reported to me as requiring any official interference. In thoroughness of mental drill, effectiveness of discipline, and the avoidance of loose, "looling," indifferent habits, both of bodily and mental action on the part of the pupils, our schools would compare quite unfavorably with the schools in our New England cities; yet, very favorably with those of the "Pine Barrens" in South Carolina.

We find, therefore, much room for improvement in the general appearance and real condition of these schools; while, in another point of view, we may be thankful they are no worse. Their standard of excellence may be greatly raised; or it might be deplorably lower than it is. The attempt to introduce calisthenic exercises, especially in the summer terms or when the schools are composed of small pupils, after the manner of the best primary schools in our cities, should be regarded with favor rather than contempt. Anything to break up the lounging listlessness of our pupils, and help them to show, singly or simultaneously, a prompt, soldier-like bearing, in "position", or movements, in their seats, or about the school room, should meet with our approval. Regulations to promote habits of carefulness or to prevent slight, unnecessary noises, as the dropping of pencils, scuffling of feet, or grazing of slates upon the benches (many of which are quite good sounding boards) are worthy of commendation.

Thoroughness and definiteness in what is taught and learned should be more generally aimed at by teachers and scholars. Ideas should be well defined, thoroughly mastered, and clearly expressed. In some of our schools the tone of voice should be improved by teachers and taught. It should also be remembered that there are three factors in the making up of a "good school": not only "good teachers" and "good pupils", but "good parents" as well, who themselves take an interest in the education of their children, without being unduly meddling, and are not unreasonable in their criticisms and demands. The "Historical Maps of Sanbornton", properly mounted, have been suspended the past year, in all the school-houses of the town. These, taken in connection with the State maps, and, if possible, as in Dist. No. 11, (the best furnished with maps of any in town) with similar delineations of our whole country, the continent, or the globe, may be made very useful to young beginners in geography. It will help the little folks wonderfully to be able to find their own school-houses, dwellings, roads travelled over, and the waters and lands bounding their own town,—which are often in sight as they look out of doors,—all represented upon the map before their eyes in the school-room. This is according to the best approved methods of normal instruction at the present day, as brought out in the late "Teachers' Institute" at Laconia. The Town Histories which are owned by every school district, should be free to the inspection of every teacher, and may be used with interest and profit for occasional exercises in the school. Facts of state and national history may be more forcibly impressed by being associated with the local history of the town and former men of the town. General questions, to be answered by the whole school, of great utility, may also be gathered from the Town History, as well as from other sources. To these recommendations I would merely subjoin a few specific observations upon the individual schools; withholding all unfavorable criticism which might, in some cases, be suggested and by no means saying all that might be said in the way of recommendation.

District No. 1—(Calef Hill.) Under the care of Miss Emilie J. Hersey, during the whole year, has afforded an instance of the very promising beginning of one of our young teachers. Most faithful drill in the elements of arithmetic and one of the best classes in that branch of study. Final visit by Rev. J. D. Tilton, who reports that the school appeared well at the last examination.

District No. 2—(Square.) This school bears the palm in respect to discipline:—the most quiet and orderly of any in town, under Miss Ellen C. Bean, as teacher, whose unremitting diligence, together with studious habits on the part of the pupils, has made this one of the best, as it is the longest of our schools. Several pupils from out of the district after the other schools had closed. Final visit by Rev. J. D. Tilton, who reports: "School very quiet and respectful, showing due deference for their teacher. In penmanship, marked improvement; in reading, clear articulation; in arithmetic, thoroughness, and other branches, good. No special criticisms called for. Teacher, to all appearance, has meant to do her duty, and has succeeded well."

District No. 3—(Hunkins.) This district is to be congratulated in having secured the services of one of our best and most experienced teachers, Miss Carrie P. Taylor. Evidence of healthful and decided growth in the mental natures of the pupils, with a desirable infusion of the element of moral training.

District No. 4—(Meadow.) Was taught during the year by Miss Nellie J. Durrell of Laconia. No school appeared under better discipline during the Summer months, or afforded a more satisfactory examination. The principles of arithmetic were here also very clearly explained. The school closing unexpectedly, no final visit was made.

District No. 5—(Bay.) Mrs. Cynthia A. Hill, a teacher of long experience, and deservedly popular in this district, had charge of its school the entire year. Some good scholars and commendable progress, but bad weather made the attendance thinner than usual the last few days, including that of the final examination.

District No. 6—(Morrison.) Summer term under the care of Miss Caroline P. Eastman, who seemed to secure the good will of her pupils and displayed evident skill in the art of instruction. The Town History was used as a text book in reading. The fall term under Miss Maud M. Knox. Order of school excellent and a marked thoroughness in everything passed over.

District No. 7—(Stone Bridge.) One long term under Mrs. Ida L. Tilton. Patient and thorough work, especially with the younger pupils, who made very decided progress in reading, spelling and the giving of definitions. Good scholarship, also, in geography and grammar.

District No. 8—(Clark's Corner.) Miss Caroline S. Runnells teacher, who labored hard for the improvement of her pupils. A series of very useful general questions were answered by the school in concert. Evidence at final examination of a thorough educational process, during the two terms, with the best effort at writing compositions anywhere observed.

District No. 9—(Chapel.) First term under the charge of Miss Nellie G. Tilton. We hardly ever witnessed greater improvement in the appearance of a school in general, and in the conduct and bearing of individual pupils than in this, between the two examinations. Miss Tilton had reason to be proud of her success in her first extended attempt at teaching; and the school was thus well prepared to make yet greater progress under the efficient management of Miss Alice L. Knox during the 2d term, whose tact and energy give her a high rank among the instructors of our town.

District No. 10—(New State.) The first term was taught by Miss Maud M. Knox, as her first experience. Only three pupils at our final visit. Miss Annie M. Knox, a teacher of large experience, had charge of the second term, with an increased number of pupils; thorough instruction and recitations of a high order at the final examination.

District No. 11—(Osgood.) Both terms under the charge of Mrs. Myrtie A. Hill, who did her work quietly, but very efficiently. The best display of individual proficiency in the rules and principles of the higher arithmetic anywhere seen. Some of the younger scholars, also, made remarkable progress in reading and spelling.

District No. 12—(Brook) contains some of the brightest pupils in town who were placed this year, practically, in one long term, under the patient and faithful instruction of Miss Nellie G. Tilton. Final visit made by Rev. J. D. Tilton, who reports the scholars as somewhat hesitant from timidity, which was a disadvantage and unfavorable. Otherwise the school appeared well.

District No. 13—(North Sanbornton.) Your committee decided that no school, on the whole, appeared better than this, at the first series of visits. Both terms under one teacher, Miss Etta Rowe, though her sister, Miss Nancy J. Rowe, acted for her the last three weeks of the last term. Order excellent with evidence of thorough instruction, and rhetorical exercises of a high order.

District No. 16—(Morrill.) Enjoyed the services of Mr. Frank E. Adams, the only male teacher in town. This school-room presented, at the first visit, the novel spectacle of one committee man, one teacher and one pupil! there being but two scholars in the school at the time, and one of these detained by an accident. Others from adjoining districts at the close. Mr. Adams' superior accomplishments entitle him to a much wider sphere of usefulness as a teacher.

[The original draft of reports for Districts Nos. 1, 2, 4 and 12 was left to be supplemented by Mr. Tilton who was to make the final visits upon their respective schools.]

All of which is respectfully submitted by

MOSES T. RUNNELS, Supt. Com. of Sanbornton.
